

*A life is gone but I'm still here,
Part of my heart is frozen in fear
The tears are gone, but I'm still here
God, illuminate my path, and make it clear*

I've been hurt, and I've been bruised
And I've never been more confused
How could a life so young just disappear?

All the pain and the heartache,
Has caused my soul to break
And I believe that it may be beyond repair

There is a truth that I must face
A love and life I can't replace
Each memory, is never far from my mind

Even though the days are long, over time I will be strong
For the love of God is generous and kind

I will dedicate my day, bless the time that came my way to other hearts that need some help, just like mine
I shall regain love I've lost, and reclaim the soul I tossed
And recreate my life with God's design
